Experience & Practice Area

Doug Mosich is Of Counsel to the firm and began practicing environmental law in 1988, as an Assistant Attorney General advising the Department of Ecology. More recently, Doug served in the Tacoma City Attorney's Office where he represented and advised clients on a wide range of environmental matters. His work in Tacoma included negotiating settlements for multi-party Superfund cleanups and contaminated sites, municipal stormwater permit appeals before the Pollution Control Hearings Board, resolving federal enforcement actions, advising clients on the application of environmental laws on Tribal land, and providing legal support to Tacoma's surface water, sanitary and solid waste utilities. Doug has also negotiated settlements of clean water act citizen suit actions for public clients.
